60 Screwcap still overwhelmingly preferred .....60

Our second national closure survey confirms the screwcap is still a clear favourite for wineries. But the numbers seems to have ever-so-slightly gone back to cork.

Wine quality is king, but the customer still plays an important role.....63

Winemakers have plenty of information about closures, but when balancing consumer preferences and the performance of the product the decision-making process can get complicated.

68 Ferment sensor technologies put through their paces .....68

Neil Scrimgeour, a senior scientist with The Australian Wine Research Institute (AWRI) Commercial Services, explores the increasing range of options that ferment sensors offer wineries.

Information sources and decision making .....75

Where do grapegrowers and winemakers look for information when making decisions about new technologies?
