From the editor .........................................7
The right-hand man quietly retires
Walsh reappointed as AGWA chair ............14
Rethink your third drink ..........................18
Getting the most out of your irrigation.....25
Mid-row crop options for vineyards ......30
Research with lofty ambition .................33
Can microflora affect a vineyard’s terroir?....36
Could your vineyard succession plan protect your region?.....38
2017 Barossa Pruning Expo .....................42
Improving the accuracy of spray applications .............47

The impact of wine labels ......................49
Consumer perceptions (and the winery bottom line)
Young Gun: Melanie Chester .................53
Have your cake and eat it too ...............58
Putting wine in a can ..........................60

A helping paw .......................................62
Dogs assisting in the winemaking process
Exposure for Australia’s cool climates and high elevations .......64
Preventing post-bottling problems ..........66

Infringement of trademarks on the internet ...74
A whole new body of law emerging

Before your brand refresh .......................68
Scarcity v Exclusivity ...............................70
What’s the difference – and which applies to your winery?

From the cover:
James Brooksby and his workmates from Annie’s Lane in the Clare Valley were runner’s up in the team spur competition at the recent Barossa Pruning Expo. More details about the winners can be found from page 42.

Grapegrower & Winemaker
July 2017 – Issue 642
www.winetitles.com.au

Grapegrower & Winemaker
July 2017 – Issue 642
www.winetitles.com.au